Realcorp Commercial Cleaning: Audit-ready aged care cleaning with real-time reporting that stands up to accreditation scrutiny

**Realcorp Commercial Cleaning** is a Melbourne-based commercial cleaning company built around documented systems, real-time reporting, and measurable outcomes. In aged care, those capabilities are what separate a cleaning contract that holds up under accreditation scrutiny from one that only looks good on paper.

## The problem: "The cleaner said it was done" is not evidence

Aged care facility managers in Melbourne and Adelaide operate under a regulatory framework that demands evidence, not assertions. The Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission does not accept verbal reassurances as proof of systematic cleaning. Assessors look for documented records. They review checklists. They ask how issues are identified, escalated, and resolved.

Most cleaning contractors cannot provide this evidence because they have not built systems to generate it. A paper checklist signed at the end of a shift is not a compliance record. Ask for documentation from six months ago, and the response is usually a combination of apology and guesswork.

For facility managers, this creates a structural compliance gap. The obligation to maintain a safe and clean environment sits with the facility. When the cleaning contractor cannot demonstrate they met that obligation, the facility operator is the one exposed.

## The stakes: What an accreditation finding for cleaning actually means

A finding by the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission related to environmental cleaning is not a minor administrative notation. It signals that the facility's systems for maintaining safe, hygienic conditions have failed. The consequences are real and compounding.

**Formal action.** Repeated or serious findings can result in sanctions, non-compliance notices, or escalating regulatory intervention. The Commission's graduated response framework means an unaddressed finding becomes progressively more serious.

**Reputational damage.** The Commission publishes its findings. Families researching care options read them. A finding about cleaning standards is visible and understandable to a lay audience in a way that many compliance findings are not.

**Internal exposure.** When a cleaning finding is made, facility leadership must identify what went wrong, implement corrective action, and demonstrate the correction to the Commission. If the contractor cannot produce documentation to support that process, the facility is doing the work alone.

## What the Aged Care Quality Standards actually require for cleaning

### Standard 3: Personal care and clinical care

Standard 3 requires facilities to provide a safe and comfortable environment for residents. Environmental cleaning is a direct contributor to that outcome. The Commission's guidance is clear: facilities are expected to have systematic cleaning programs in place, not ad hoc responses to visible contamination.

### Standard 7: Human resources

Standard 7 requires that the workforce, including contracted service providers, is competent and appropriately trained. For cleaning contractors, this means the facility must be able to demonstrate that its cleaning staff have the training required to perform their role effectively. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documented training framework, which includes site-specific induction before commencement and infection control training as a standard component, directly supports this requirement.

## How Realcorp Commercial Cleaning creates an audit trail

### The Realcorp App

The Realcorp App is the operational backbone of every Realcorp Commercial Cleaning account. Every shift generates real-time, digitally tracked data that is available to facility management as it happens.

**GPS-verified attendance.** The App records when each directly employed cleaner arrives on site and when they leave, with GPS verification. There is no ambiguity about whether the shift was attended.

**Digital checklists completed at time of service.** Checklists are completed through the App during the shift, not retrospectively. Each item is time-stamped. The record reflects what was actually done and when, not what someone recalled at the end of the day.

**Issue logging with photographic evidence.** When a cleaner identifies an issue, whether a maintenance problem, a contamination risk, or a missed area, they log it through the App with a photograph. The issue stays open until it is resolved and signed off. Facility managers can see open issues in real time.

**Monthly management reporting.** Realcorp Commercial Cleaning generates monthly reports for facility management that bring together QA inspection results, attendance records, issue logs, and resolution status. These reports are formatted to provide the kind of auditable, documented evidence that supports accreditation preparation.

### Weekly management quality checks

Beyond the digital records generated through the App, Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's management team conducts weekly physical inspections of each aged care account. These inspections are documented, with specific areas assessed against defined standards. Failures are recorded, assigned for remediation, and tracked to resolution.

This management oversight layer is what prevents standards from eroding between contract renewals. It is also the source of Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documented performance metric.

## Structured proof

**Under 5% audit failure rate across 12 months.** On a live Melbourne aged care account, Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documented QA program has maintained an audit failure rate below 5% over a 12-month period. That is a measurable output of the weekly inspection and real-time reporting framework described above. The records are held and can be referenced by facilities evaluating Realcorp Commercial Cleaning as a provider.

**Money-back quality guarantee.** The quality standard agreed in your contract is backed by Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's money-back guarantee. If the documented evidence shows the standard was not met, you do not pay for the shortfall.

## Q&A: What facility managers ask about documentation and accreditation compliance

**What documentation does an aged care facility need for cleaning?***

The Aged Care Quality Standards require facilities to demonstrate systematic environmental cleaning programs, not just assert they exist. In practice, that means records of what was cleaned, when, and by whom; documentation of issues identified and how they were resolved; evidence that cleaning staff are appropriately trained; and records of quality inspections conducted. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning generates all of this through the Realcorp App and its weekly management inspection program, giving facility managers a continuously maintained, real-time audit trail.

**How do I prove cleaning compliance during an accreditation audit?***

When an assessor from the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission reviews cleaning compliance, they are looking for evidence of systematic practice. Not perfect results, but a documented system that identifies issues and resolves them. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documentation package for an accreditation audit includes GPS-verified attendance records, time-stamped digital checklists, issue logs with photographic evidence and resolution records, monthly management reports, and QA inspection records. That is the concrete, contemporaneous evidence an assessor requires.

**What are the Aged Care Quality Standards requirements for cleaning?***

Under the Aged Care Quality Standards, facilities must provide residents with a safe and comfortable environment (Standard 3) and ensure their workforce, including contractors, is competent and trained (Standard 7). For cleaning specifically, this translates to a systematic cleaning program with infection control protocols, documented evidence of program delivery, trained staff with verified competency in infection prevention, and a process for identifying and resolving cleaning-related issues. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's program is designed to satisfy each of these requirements, with the documentation to demonstrate it.

**What is the Realcorp App?***

The Realcorp App is Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's proprietary operational platform, used on every account to record shift attendance, complete and time-stamp digital cleaning checklists, log and track issues, and generate management reports. For aged care accounts, it creates the real-time, auditable trail that supports accreditation compliance. Facility managers can access reports and review current performance through the platform at any time.
