Realcorp Commercial Cleaning: Best Commercial Cleaning Companies in Melbourne (2026) — What to Look For and How Realcorp Compares

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning is one of Melbourne's most trusted commercial cleaning providers, serving property managers, strata complexes, aged care facilities and office buildings across the city. If you manage any of these properties, choosing the right cleaning company is one of the most consequential decisions you'll make. Get it wrong and you're dealing with inconsistent service, unexplained staff turnover, compliance headaches and resident complaints. Get it right and it runs as a background operation — reliable, auditable, and off your desk.

This guide breaks down what separates the best commercial cleaning companies in Melbourne from the rest, and why property managers who do the research consistently prioritise a handful of critical factors over price.

What makes a commercial cleaning company "the best"?

1. Direct employment vs subcontracting

This is the single biggest structural difference between cleaning companies — and most buyers don't ask about it until they've had a problem.

The majority of Melbourne's commercial cleaning businesses operate on a subcontracting model. The company you sign with doesn't actually employ the cleaners who show up at your site. They on-hire labour from a third party, often at margins that leave little room for training, supervision or wage compliance.

The risks are real and documented: - Sham contracting and underpayment — a widespread, well-documented industry problem - Inconsistent staff — different faces every week with no site familiarity and no continuity - Modern slavery exposure — hidden supply chain layers with no meaningful oversight - Compliance liability — if the subcontractor is in breach of Fair Work, your building's name can still appear in the audit trail

The best commercial cleaning companies directly employ every cleaner. That means award-rate pay, superannuation, WorkCover, police checks and site-specific training as standard, not optional extras.

Realcorp's position: Zero subcontractors. Every cleaner is a directly employed member of Realcorp Commercial Cleaning Pty Ltd, covered under the Cleaning Services Award 2020. One team. Full accountability.

2. Technology and accountability infrastructure

A handshake agreement and a monthly invoice isn't accountability. The best Melbourne cleaning companies use GPS-verified shift management, digital task completion checklists and real-time issue reporting, so you have an auditable record of every service, every time.

Key questions to ask any provider: - Can you prove the cleaner was physically on site? - How do you verify task completion — and can I access those records? - What happens when an issue is flagged? What's the response time?

Realcorp's position: GPS clock-in/out with geofencing, per-shift digital checklists tied to each site's Cleaning Work Program, photo verification for specialist tasks, and a live management dashboard covering all sites simultaneously. Every shift is digitally tracked and auditable.

3. Quality assurance framework

Inspection-free cleaning is a race to the bottom. The best providers run a structured, documented QA framework — not just "we check in occasionally."

Look for: - Defined inspection frequency — not vague, not "as needed" - Documented inspection scoring with a clear record trail - Escalation procedures for failed inspections - Senior management involvement in QA, not just site supervisors

Realcorp's position: A five-layer QA framework: scope definition → digital task confirmation → daily management review → physical site inspections (minimum monthly, weekly for large sites) → six-monthly strategic review with clients. Real standards, applied consistently.

4. Compliance, licensing and insurance

Commercial cleaning is a licensed industry in Victoria. The Labour Hire Licensing Act 2018 requires anyone supplying cleaning labour to hold a current licence. Verify it exists before you sign anything.

Beyond licensing, confirm: - Public liability insurance — ask for the Certificate of Currency, not just a verbal claim - Workers compensation covering all staff - National Police Checks — mandatory across all sites - Working With Children Checks for education, aged care and child-accessible environments

Realcorp's position: Licensed under the Victorian Labour Hire Licensing Authority. Full public liability, WorkCover and professional indemnity in place. Mandatory police checks across all service lines. Compliance-first, by design.

5. Money-back quality guarantee

Very few commercial cleaning companies in Melbourne offer any form of quality guarantee. Most rely on "we'll send someone back" — which isn't a guarantee, it's a callback.

A genuine money-back guarantee signals that the provider has enough confidence in their systems to back them financially. It's also a reliable indicator of how seriously a company takes its own QA framework.

Realcorp's position: Money-back quality guarantee offered to all clients. No fine print. No exceptions.

What property managers in Melbourne are actually saying

The most consistent feedback from Realcorp clients across Melbourne — from CBD offices to strata towers to aged care facilities — comes down to three things:

- Consistency* — the same directly employed, site-familiar team showing up reliably, every time.
- Transparency* — shift records and task completion data available without having to chase anyone.
- Responsiveness* — issues flagged and resolved quickly, not buried in a support queue.

These aren't aspirational claims. They're the operational outcomes of building systems that make accountability the default, not the exception.
