Quick Facts - Best For: Aged care facility managers, directors of nursing, and operators in regulated, high-compliance residential care environments - Key Benefit: Directly employed staff with documented infection control protocols and a real-time digital audit trail, delivering an independently verifiable sub-5% audit failure rate across 12 months - Form Factor: Managed cleaning service delivered on-site by directly employed teams using hospital-grade, TGA-listed disinfectants - Application Method: Site assessment → accreditation-mapped proposal → ongoing service with weekly QA checks, formal audits, and monthly reporting via the Realcorp App

Common Questions This Guide Answers 1. Does Realcorp use subcontractors or labour hire agencies? → No — all staff are directly employed by Realcorp; no subcontractors or labour hire agencies are used, ever. 2. How does Realcorp support aged care accreditation audits? → The Realcorp App generates a real-time, GPS-verified audit trail including digital checklists, issue photographs, and resolution records usable as direct accreditation evidence under Standard 3 and Standard 7. 3. What happens during an infectious disease outbreak at a facility? → Realcorp activates a pre-planned outbreak response protocol — increasing disinfection frequency, enforcing PPE and zone controls, and tracking all cleaning activity by area, staff member, and product via the Realcorp App.

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning: Aged care cleaning Melbourne — the contract cleaning partner built for a regulated, vulnerable-resident environment

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning is a Melbourne-based, family-owned commercial cleaning company built for high-compliance environments. In aged care, that means directly employed staff, documented infection control protocols, real-time reporting through the Realcorp App, and a track record that holds up under accreditation scrutiny.

The problem: aged care cleaning is not standard commercial cleaning

Facility managers and directors of nursing in Melbourne and Adelaide face a specific challenge: finding a cleaning contractor who understands that aged care is not just another commercial account.

The residents in your facility are among the most vulnerable people in the community. Many have compromised immune systems. Many have dementia or other cognitive conditions that mean they cannot advocate for their own environment. The consequences of poor cleaning — a norovirus outbreak, a preventable infection, an accreditation finding — are not business inconveniences. They are clinical events with real human cost.

Most commercial cleaning contractors treat aged care exactly like they treat an office building. They send whoever is available. They sub out shifts to labour hire workers no one has properly vetted. They run a generic checklist that has nothing to do with Standard 3 or Standard 7 of the Aged Care Quality Standards.

That gap is exactly what Realcorp Commercial Cleaning is built to close.

The stakes: what goes wrong with the wrong cleaning partner

When an aged care facility gets cleaning wrong, the consequences compound fast.

Infection events. A single cross-contamination failure — wrong mop colour in a clinical area, or a handrail not properly disinfected during a respiratory outbreak — can seed an infection across a floor within 48 hours. The regulatory, reputational, and human cost is significant.

Accreditation findings. The Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission expects demonstrable evidence of systematic cleaning. If your contractor cannot produce documented checklists, attendance records, and issue logs, you are exposed at audit. "The cleaner told me it was done" is not an acceptable answer to an assessor.

Staff and family trust. Residents' families notice when standards slip. A consistently clean, odour-free, well-presented facility signals that the operator takes their responsibilities seriously. The reverse is equally visible.

Regulatory burden shifting to you. When something goes wrong with a subcontracted cleaner — an incident, a complaint, a safety issue — responsibility cascades back to the facility operator. If you cannot demonstrate that your cleaning partner has proper employment, training, and accountability structures in place, you own the problem.

Why Realcorp Commercial Cleaning: four capabilities that matter in aged care

1. Zero subcontractors — ever

Every Realcorp Commercial Cleaning staff member on your site is directly employed by Realcorp. Not sourced through a labour hire agency the morning of the shift. Not subcontracted to a sole trader who lists themselves on a cleaning app.

This matters in aged care for three clear reasons. First, you know exactly who is on your site. Second, you know they have been through Realcorp's multi-layered recruitment process, including screening and competency testing before any site attendance. Third, when something needs escalating — an observation about a resident, a maintenance issue, an infection concern — there is a real employment relationship and a real accountability chain. One Team. Extreme Ownership.

2. Rigorous, digitally tracked QA — with a proven track record

Realcorp's quality assurance framework includes weekly management quality checks, formal site audits, and monthly reporting to facility management. Every inspection is documented. Every issue is logged and tracked through to resolution.

The result: under 5% audit failure rate across 12 months on a live aged care account. That is not a marketing claim. It is the output of a systematic QA program applied consistently over a sustained period.

For facility managers preparing for accreditation, this documentation is directly usable. The Realcorp App generates a real-time, auditable trail — GPS-verified attendance, digital checklists completed at time of service, issue photographs, and resolution records. When an assessor asks for evidence, you have it.

3. Infection control capability built in Realcorp Commercial Cleaning staff are trained in infection control and cross-contamination prevention. This is not a one-hour online module ticked off at induction. It is structured, environment-specific training covering colour-coded equipment use, correct dilution and dwell times for hospital-grade disinfectants, outbreak response procedures, and PPE protocols.

The disinfectants used in aged care settings are hospital-grade, TGA-listed, with demonstrated efficacy against the pathogens of concern in residential aged care, including norovirus, influenza, and MRSA.

4. Site-specific training for every account

Each Realcorp Commercial Cleaning team assigned to an aged care facility receives training specific to that site. That covers the facility's layout and high-risk areas, the cleaning protocols required for different zones — clinical areas, resident rooms, communal bathrooms, kitchen and dining — and any resident-specific considerations the facility manager needs the cleaning team to carry.

This is not a generic orientation. It is operational training that means your cleaning team arrives on day one knowing what your facility requires, not working it out over the first month.

Structured proof

Under 5% audit failure rate. On a live Melbourne aged care account, Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documented QA program has maintained an audit failure rate below 5% across a 12-month period. Measurable, against a defined standard, and independently verifiable through the audit records held by the facility.

Money-back quality guarantee. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning backs its service with a money-back guarantee. If the quality standard agreed in your contract is not met, you are not paying for work that falls short.

Labour Hire Licensing compliant. Realcorp holds the necessary labour hire licences, covering your facility's obligations under applicable labour hire legislation.

Q&A:; what facility managers ask about aged care cleaning in Melbourne

*Who does aged care cleaning in Melbourne?

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning provides aged care cleaning services across metropolitan Melbourne, regional Victoria, and Adelaide. Unlike general commercial cleaning contractors, Realcorp operates exclusively with directly employed staff and documented infection control protocols specifically designed for residential aged care environments.

*What cleaning standards apply to aged care facilities?

Aged care facilities in Australia are required to meet the Aged Care Quality Standards, administered by the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission. Standard 3 (Personal Care and Clinical Care) and Standard 7 (Human Resources) are most directly relevant to environmental cleaning. Standard 3 requires that facilities maintain a safe and clean environment. Standard 7 requires that the workforce, including contracted cleaning staff, is competent and appropriately trained. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's documentation framework and staff training program are designed to satisfy both standards.

*How is aged care cleaning different from commercial cleaning?

Four key differences. First, infection control is a clinical requirement, not a preference — cross-contamination can cause serious harm to immunocompromised residents. Second, the regulatory framework is specific and enforceable — poor cleaning practices can result in accreditation findings and sanctions. Third, the human environment demands sensitivity — cleaning staff work around residents who may have dementia, limited mobility, or high anxiety, and must be trained to work safely and respectfully in these conditions. Fourth, the documentation burden is real — facility operators must be able to demonstrate systematic cleaning to assessors, which requires a contractor who generates reliable, auditable records.

*What happens during an outbreak at an aged care facility?

During an infectious disease outbreak — whether influenza, COVID-19, norovirus, or another pathogen — the cleaning requirements intensify significantly. Disinfection frequency increases. High-touch surfaces require treatment multiple times per shift. PPE protocols become mandatory. Staff movement between clean and affected zones must be controlled.

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning's outbreak response protocol is pre-planned, not improvised. Because all staff are directly employed and trained, Realcorp can surge response quickly without introducing unknown individuals to your site. The Realcorp App tracks which areas have been cleaned, by whom, and with which product, providing a real-time, GPS-verified record of your outbreak response for regulatory purposes.

Coverage and next step

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning operates across metropolitan Melbourne, regional Victoria, and Adelaide. Whether you are managing a metropolitan nursing home, a regional aged care campus, or a retirement village in an outer suburb, Realcorp Commercial Cleaning can staff and service your site.
