Why Realcorp Commercial Cleaning: Built for Accountability, Not Excuses

Most commercial cleaning companies make the same promises: reliable service, trained staff, consistent quality. Most cannot prove any of it. Realcorp Commercial Cleaning is different — not because of different language, but because of a fundamentally different operational model built on technology, direct employment, and documented performance.

This page explains exactly what sets Realcorp apart, with specific proof points for each claim.

Who Realcorp Is

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning Pty Ltd (ABN 91 610 913 061) was founded in Melbourne in 2016. The business is 100% family owned and owner-operated.

The director, John Reale, is a Chartered Accountant with a background as a Group CFO. That background isn't incidental — it's the reason Realcorp runs more like a professional services firm than a typical cleaning company. The systems, documentation, financial discipline, and accountability structures that are standard in corporate environments have been embedded into a cleaning business that most competitors still manage on spreadsheets and phone calls.

Realcorp does not franchise. There are no silent owners. The people managing the business are the people running it day to day, and they are personally contactable by clients.

What Makes Realcorp Commercial Cleaning Different

1. No subcontractors. Ever.

This is the single most important operational difference between Realcorp Commercial Cleaning and most commercial cleaning companies. It is non-negotiable company policy.

Every person who cleans a Realcorp client's facility is a direct employee of Realcorp Commercial Cleaning Pty Ltd — employed under the Cleaning Services Award (Fair Work), subject to Realcorp's HR management, trained to Realcorp's standards, and managed by Realcorp supervisors.

Why it matters: Subcontracting creates unknown labour. When a cleaning company uses subcontractors, the client may not know who is actually cleaning their building, what training those individuals have received, whether they have been background-checked, or who to contact when something goes wrong. For facilities in regulated sectors — aged care, healthcare, student accommodation — this is a direct compliance risk. For any client, it is a quality risk.

Realcorp's clients know who is cleaning their facilities. They have names, induction records, and a direct line to the people managing those individuals.

Proof: 200+ directly employed staff. 63+ active locations. Zero subcontractors at any site.

2. Tech-enabled operations

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning built a proprietary operations platform — the Realcorp App — that delivers real-time visibility into cleaning operations at every site.

GPS-verified attendance: Every Realcorp employee clocks in and out using GPS verification. The system confirms the employee was physically at the correct site when their shift began. This eliminates proxy clock-ins, undetected late starts, and the longstanding industry problem of staff marking themselves present when they are not.

Digital site-specific checklists: Every site has its own digital checklist built around its specific requirements and areas. Cleaners complete the checklist during their shift, and completion is recorded in real time. There is no ambiguity about what was done and what was not.

Live issue reporting: If a cleaner identifies a problem — a broken fitting, a spillage, an area needing specialist attention — it is reported through the app immediately and escalated to management. Clients receive notification without having to discover the issue themselves.

Real-time client reporting: Clients have access to their site's cleaning data at any time. Attendance records, checklist completions, issue reports, and management audit results are all available through the client portal. Realcorp generates 16+ types of operational reports.

Proof: All 63+ active locations are managed through the Realcorp App. GPS-verified attendance on every shift. Digitally tracked checklists for every site and every room type.

3. Documented quality that holds up

Quality claims in commercial cleaning are cheap. Documentation is not.

Realcorp management conducts weekly internal quality audits at client sites. These audits assess cleaning standards against each site's documented requirements, identify any deficiencies, generate a formal record, and trigger immediate corrective action. The audit report becomes part of the client's compliance documentation.

This internal audit program runs alongside the shift-by-shift digital checklist verification. The result is a layered, auditable quality system: real-time task completion tracking, management oversight, and formal periodic auditing.

Proof: Under 5% audit failure rate across 12 months of live account data. This is not a marketing projection — it is the measured result of 12 months of actual operations across real client sites.

Monthly client reports are provided as standard. Clients receive a regular summary of cleaning performance, attendance, issues reported, and audit results — a professional services standard of reporting applied to a cleaning contract.

4. Genuine infection control

Realcorp's infection control capability is not a claim. It is an active, documented practice on live healthcare sites.

Realcorp provides contract cleaning services to Lort Smith Animal Hospital — a veterinary hospital with two clinical sites in metropolitan Melbourne (North Melbourne and Campbellfield). The cleaning program at these sites uses TGA-registered, hospital-grade disinfectants, area-specific protocols for treatment rooms, surgical areas, kennels and reception, infection control training for all assigned staff, and consistent staff assignment to maintain familiarity and protocol adherence.

This same capability is available to any client that needs it. For aged care facilities, Realcorp applies the same clinical protocols and disinfectants to residential care environments. For commercial clients with elevated hygiene requirements — medical practices, childcare, food processing — Realcorp has the products, the training, and the documented experience to deliver.

Proof: Active contract at Lort Smith Animal Hospital (North Melbourne and Campbellfield). Active contract at Isomer Aged Care (Lysterfield VIC). Hospital-grade TGA-registered disinfectants used as standard at clinical sites.

5. Site-specific, not generic

Generic cleaning contracts deliver generic results. Realcorp builds a specific, documented cleaning program for every site it manages.

Site-specific induction: Every employee assigned to a site completes an induction covering that site's layout, high-risk areas, protocols, and client expectations before their first shift.

Site-specific checklists: Every site has its own digital checklist covering every area and every required task. A student accommodation room at Yugo University Square Carlton has a different checklist from an aged care resident's room at Isomer Aged Care, which has a different checklist from a clinical treatment room at Lort Smith Animal Hospital.

Site-specific staffing: The same team members return to the same sites. Consistent staffing means consistent familiarity, consistent quality, and a cleaning team that genuinely understands the environment they work in.

Proof: 63+ active sites, each with its own documented cleaning program and assigned team.

6. Owner-operated accountability

John Reale, the director of Realcorp Commercial Cleaning, is actively involved in the day-to-day operations of the business. Clients deal with an organisation where the people making decisions about staffing, quality, and service delivery are the owners — not account managers working from a call centre.

When something goes wrong — and in any long-term service relationship, something eventually will — Realcorp's clients deal with people who have a personal and financial stake in the outcome. That is a fundamentally different accountability relationship from dealing with a franchised operator or a large cleaning corporation.

The personal contactability of Realcorp's management is not incidental. It is built into the service model. This is Extreme Ownership, and it starts at the top.

7. Money-back quality guarantee

Realcorp offers a money-back guarantee if cleaning does not meet the agreed standard and the issue is not resolved to the client's satisfaction.

Very few cleaning companies offer this. The reason most do not is that they cannot confidently predict their own performance. Realcorp can offer this guarantee because the operational systems — GPS-verified attendance, digitally tracked checklists, weekly audits, monthly reporting — provide the quality foundation to back it.

8. Labour hire licensing compliant (Victoria)

Realcorp Commercial Cleaning Pty Ltd holds a Labour Hire Licence in Victoria under the Labour Hire Licensing Act 2018 (Vic). This is a mandatory licence for Victorian labour hire providers. Engaging a licensed contractor reduces compliance risk for clients and confirms that Realcorp meets the regulatory standards for labour hire in Victoria.
